PORTIAND, THURSDAY JAN 6, 1887 REACHING OUT FOR OREGON.

It is evident from Gnv Stanford's talk with our correspondent at Washington that the Cen-tral Facific Railroad company intends to "put its arms around Oregon". It controls practic-ally and will own the O & C. R. R., the main road of Western Oregon, and now has an ere upon Enstern Oregon and those districts of Southern Oregon east of the Cascade mountains In these regions there is more undeveloped fine country than in any other part of the United States at this time. It will be an easy matter imparatively, for the Central Pacific to cross as new country and to penetrate the heart of the Columbia river basin. Its California & Oregon branch is already within tifty miles of gon state line, and is approaching the h river in Northern California, whose presention the only water level route, besides that of the Columbia river late the regions east of the mountains Four hundred in les (0) shout) of road building would carry the Central Pacific to Pendleton, and from there it would be an easy matter to reach in all directions. When the situation of the Central Pacific is considered with the attractions of this field, it is not surprising that the scheme is in mind if this project should be carried out, the effect will be to transfer all the business of Lake and Elamath counties, with that of the new country in Middle Oregon, and with much of that of th embis river basin, to California. An effort will be made to take the grain product of the Gregon cannot well afford to be tacked on to California by a transportation arrangement of this kind. Once established, the relation would be hard to break. The natural allegiance of the sealern and southern country is not to San Francisco but to Portland, and the with Portiand, not with San Francisco. But Partiand ought to provide transportation facilities. We ought to provide the settlers of Lake and Klamath and the new country north of these counties, with a railroad outlet before the Central Pacific does. Extension of the narrow gange system through the McKenzie pass and into Crook county, thence south, would secure a pacified all the synthem region, while the for Portland all the southern region, while the con Pacific promises to tap the region fur-to the north. Certainly something should be done to preserve our state from the grasp of a corporation whose interests are foreign and whose methods are often severe and selfish. The older country of western Oregon is strong enough to protect itself in its own natural and best, interests, but the eastern and southern country beyond the mountains is open ground ought to claim and hold it.

LANDLORDISM DYING OF FAMILE

Our dispatches yesterday reported distress to the point of starvation in the west and south of Ireland Famine in Ireland is a familiar figure of her history. In 1845-47 there was a dreadful visitation of distress in consequence of the failupe in 1845 of the potato crop, upon which its agricultural population rely largely for support. A land of few large towns, of few mann factures, the people in the south and west of Ireland live by agriculture alone. There are some fisheries on the west cosst, tut they do not count for much industrial importance. The reset landards of Leiend are mostly absuming. land Famine in Ireland is a familiar figure great landlords of Ireland are mostly absentees the smaller ones are often deeply in debt. In such a country the land was the very life of the Irish peasant. So when the potato crop failed in 1845 the peasantry drifted swiftly down to fa-mine. Feogle perished in large numbers of disease consequent upon improper and insuffitheer star vation. English merchants subscribed famine stricken districts and was conspicuous for his humane efforts for the relief of the staty for his humane enters for the feller of medicary ing peasanty. The United States sent vessels full of food and grain to Ireland Even the "unspeakable Turk" sent help, but the unsery was too widespread to be conquered by such measures the rendsides were crowded with sick and dying people, and men and women hastened to commit petty crimes to secure ar rest and a full meal in prison.

From this famine dates the vast Irish emigra ition to America and the decline of the prosper ity of landlordism. When this great famine was over Ireland had lost 2 900 000 of her popu-lation by emigration and statistion, and from that day the stream of Irish emigration has never stopped flowing to America, filling up her never stopped howing to America, Hilling up her cities from New York to San Francisco from St. Paul to New Orleans. This famine drove Peel to the abrogation of the corn laws and the inauguration of the policy of low tartif and utilizate free trade. The dreadful event roused had no diversified industries, and was mainly an icultural country where enormous economic evils chanced shrifty for abatement and reform Gladstone in 1858 was the first great minister to zee this, to acknowledge it and to act upon it and he remains to day the only great English man, save Fox, who has riseu fully up to the lovel of Irish reform With the help of Bright 1849 diseate): Here had largely disendowed the Irish state courch, and as Bright eloquently said, "Tessened the bond of affliction and made life more tolerable to vast numbers who suffer." For this great act of statesmanship triadstone was stigmatized by the tory clergy "as a truitor to his queen, his country and his God, and his ministry was denounced as a "calanate of brigands" Then Gladstone turned his a ten-tion to land reform He pounted out that the Irish had been crushed by cruel pensi codes for centuries and occupied the soil as mere tenzu s at will under the absolute power f the hag! she handlerd, and he derounced the injustice of seasing the binne of I am it austral inversely and sensi disorder on the untry and barbarous native Irishmen." He declared that the Irish agricultural population had turned out sxactly as any other race of people would under the same hard industrial and coonomic situation They held the land, the rolly means of iveng at the mercy of the land lond's agent, they had no interest in being in distribute and improving the land, because if they improved their little patch of soll their rent was sure to be raised, or they were turned out without any allowance for their betterments, off course such tenants would not make improve-ments to feather the nest of the landlord who raised his rent or appropriated his betterments for the benefit of the next tenant. Of course, too, such a system of land tenure persuaded the miserable tenant to abuse or neglect the land and to look upon the landlord as his natural ene my, and inevitably bred idleness and inwless-ness, just as slavery bred idleness an ithelt among the negroes at the South The law gave the tenant no security for his labor, and he re fused to sow what he could not real. In I ther alone a better system existed of tenant right, where the tenant by custom not by law kent his holding so long as he paid his rent he got some compensation for his bettermen's and sould sell the "good with of his farm in the market. Palmerston succeed at the traunt right as landlord's wrong but (dadet ne succeed that a landlord held all his rights of property subject to the general west just as a ship owner did his ship and a railway com its lines: that no ownership could be al lowed to be so administered as to become a public danger, that the state had the same right to in terfere with the right of a landlord by legula tion as it had to interfere with any other private r corporate right.

In 1870 Gladstone's land bill became a law. In 1870 Gladstone's land bill became a law, and upset for the first time and forever the doctrine of the landlord's absolute right, and substituted for it the Ulster tenant right, making eviction impossible so long as the tenant paid rent and entitling him to full compensation for his betterments. The number of 1848-47 exposed the robinness of the land tenure system, but it was not until nearly twenty-five years later that fillingstone put an end to the absolute power of the landlord by legalizing the tenant right. It is in the execution of the same policy that Glad stone has acted since, and he justifies his action on the broad philosophical plea of Etmund. Burlie that all private or public rights of owner ship are subordinate to the public weal that England is bound to give Ireland a government under which industrial distress and social misery are not consequent upon the enforcem at of landlards' rights and when such evil economic hadderds' rights and when sund syn somethous situation exists the government is bound to if sird legislature rulef, even if landlor, rights of property go to the wall. It is perfectly confirm that since the first shock of the great famine. and corsequent emigraci n of 15 to 7 landlord sum has grewn less and less profitable every year, until to-day it looks vot; much as it the end of the whole bus ness would be lat the landlords, in despair, because of the sleady drift downward of values, would gradually self out to the tenants a property that declines in value and is dangerous to hold. Lither this will take place or some extensive system of hand purchas be executed by the government, and the peas aniry will become the tennuls of the state

During the year 1886 Minneapolis ground 5:8, 317 barrels of flour, gut 25:980 619 est of timber did a clearing house business of $100, 174,498, and a jobbing trade of $70.000,000, turned at manufactured articles worth $02, 587,000, and traded in real estate to the amount of $98 310 62 The number of buildings erected was 4485, at a cost of $11 474 402. The Tribune claims for the city a population of St Puni real estate transactions for the $9,658,692. On street improvements the expen ditures were $1 300,000 The Pronser-Press claims that the city contains from 135,000 to 150, The showings for both cities are surprisingly great but Minumpolis, which was long behind St. Paul, is now clearly in the lead. The two oties now touch each other, and indeed are vir-tually one. Tagether they form a metropolis of 200,000 people, characterized by intense energy But great as they are, whether taken together for singly, they are small by contrast with mighty Chicago, whose wholesale business for the year tooted up $416,000,000, whose manufactured products reached a total value of $849,010,000, whose produce receipts showed a footing of $322,000,000, whose bank clearings ran to the prodignous total of $2,504,702,912, and whose frontage of buildings erected within the year exceed the length of twenty-one miles.

A CONSIDERATE LETTER.

PORTLAND OF Jan 4, 1886.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE ORIGINAL A leading editorial in this morning 8 issue of your journal you charge that he statement in my letter in yesterday 8 issue to the effect that the state schools of this country were managed in the interests of irreligion at 1 athelem as wholly and mujustifiably wrong "Since we have no state re ligion," says the article in this morning 3 paper, "the state causet make religious tearhing a part initial states and the state of the state of schools are managed in the interests of irreligion and atteles is not made by Catholas alone. In an article which appeared last summer in the interior at Irrespictation organ published in Chicago the writer argued in the same manner. He says The bible and trayer are virtually evoluted from the school-rooms of the state. What is there sit that state the same of the situation and the same manner is master than simple proper is developed which is hostile to pietly duty morality. If course nature is master than simple of the situation and instance is hostile to early the late. Presbyterian Synod at Baitimore for the first time in the history of the world "says the committee, the spectacle is presented of popular education without a God or religious faith. Perhaps it is not possible to establish parcellais schools or restore religious or moral ity to their proper place in the common school but we must not suffer our children to pass out of the common school into the atheistic academies and colleges. In saying these things there is no intanton to peak iff of the public schools for to innore their merits atherwise, but it is desired to show a concert of opinion on this juestion between Catholas and non Catholas as against The Ora Dailas and cold to prove our case but novertheless many such instances here a contain such case. Not long age the Boston papers reported two exception as supersition and punished a child who relused loid in some scenarian religious exervier. The writer has no personal knowledge of any instance where cathers in the public achools dense the excepts and the Catholas version of Christa would not vanish the Catholas version of Christa would not vanish the Catholas version by trink an acceptance of God, but has personal knowledge were atheists a DEWURKER OVERRULED—Judge Stearns yet torday overruled the demurror to the indictment in the case of M B Rankin. One ground was that a mortgage was not a conveyance another that Rankin did not willfully borrow on property and his own, the variance in the lots and blooks de scribed as those that should have been mentioned being the result of error. It is now probable that as legal quibbles are over with the case will come up shortly for final disposition and be tried and done with.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT

The Willamette river from Portland to the Common which the city has the right to improve is at this time in as good condition for navigation as the Columbia river is in many places this side of Astoria. Therefore there seems to be little need of spending money of the city dredger and app in temmoes. What the lower Columbia is properly deepened and it becomes necessary to improve the Wilsmette the work can be done much more committed by Salding.
